That's What Secretary Foster Says He Will Do with the Gold Reserve.

That's What Secretary Foster says He Will Do with the Gold Reserve.

Washington, February 17.—The treasury situation shows improvement. Heavy receipts and smaller expenditures have had the effect of showing a gain in the balance which for the past few days had dropped down to a dangerously low margin. Today it is about $25,000,000, of which $10,000,000 is subsidiary coin and a like amount in national bank depositaries. The margin a few days ago was only about $23,000,000, which taking out the two items named left the treasury with a very narrow margin to work on. All heavy payments likely to occur this month have been made. The treasury officials are still interested in the question of keeping intact the $100,000,000 gold reserve. Secretary Foster authorized the statement today that the gold reserve will be kept intact at all hazards. How, he could not say, but he stated with emphasis that if it was necessary to issue bonds to do it, he would go even to that extreme. He said he felt almost certain that he could reach the end of his term without having to issue bonds. "Even to issue bonds—say $50,000,000." said the secretary, "would not necessarily mean an increase in gold to that extent. The law provides that bonds must be paid for in coin. Silver is equivalent being offered for bonds? Nothing. Could I refuse it? No. So, if even bonds were gold, would that relieve the situation? Not unless an arrangement based on honor between the secretary of the treasury and the purchaser was made, and then I would be subject to all sorts of criticisms. The whole subject is surrounded by vexations. You may say, however, that the gold reserve will be kept intact, come what may."

TO FORM A TREATY OF ANNEXATION. But Neumann Will Work with the Sana stors to Prevent Its Batification.

Foster's Letter Made Public.

Washington, February 17 .- Paul Neumann, envoy of queen Liliuokalani, accom-panied by Prince David, of the royal family, and two servants, reached the city late tonight. Though worn and tired out after his tedious journey, Mr. Neumann, in a brief conversation, indicated partially what his course of action will be in his effort to nduce the senate to refuse to ratify the treaty for the annexation of Hawaii, which it now has under consideration. Neumann regretted very much that the matter had progressed so far as it has, and regarded it as unfortunate that he would not be able to see the president or Secretary Foster until next week. Neumann realizes, there-fore, that he must submit the queen's case to the senators themselves, and tomorrow he will begin work. He will ask the senators to consider papers which he has in his possession, and then, after reading them and hearing all he has to say, they should decide to ratify the treaty, he will not have a word of complaint to make. He regretted exceedingly that such undue haste as characterized it should have been used in send-ing the treaty to the senate, when but one opportunity had been given the people of Hawaii, which he represented, to submit their views on the matter. MINISTER STEVENS REBUKED

For His Action in Establishing a Protec rate Over Bawail. Washington, February 17.—The correspondence sent into the senate by the presiden to accompany the Hawaiian treaty contains the text of Secretary Foster's dispatch of February 11th, an abstract of which went out by the last mails to Honolulu, disavowing Minister Stevens's protectorate. Secretary

Foster says:
"Your cypher telegram, dated the 1st instant "Your cypher telegram, dated the 1st instant and transmitted through the navy department's good offices, was received here at 4:30 o'clock p. m. on the 9th instant. You therein make the following important statement: 'Today at 9 o'clock a. m., in accordance with the request of the provisional government of Hawaii. I have placed the government of Hawaii under United States protection during negotiations, not interfering with the execution of public affairs.' The precise character and scope of the act thus announced by you do not appear from this order recitat. The press, however, prints full details of the occurrences of the 1st instant as telegraphed from San Francisco on arrival of the mail steamer Australia at that port on the morning of the 9th, and I therein find what purports, with the appearance of general correctness, to be the text of the proclamation issued by you on the 1st instant. The manner and degree of the execution of your proclamation by the naval force are not related with particularity in the brief telegraphic report just received from Captain Witss. The phrase-ology of your proclamation in announcing your action in the assumption of the protection of the Hawaiian islands in the name of the United States would appear to be tantamount to the assumption of a protectorate over those islands in behalf of the United States, with all rights and obligations, which the term implies. To this extent it goes beyond the necessities of the situation and the instructions heretofore given you. Your existing instructions and those under which the and transmitted through the navy depart yond the necessities of the situation and the instructions heretofore given you. Your existing instructions and those under which the commanders of navul vessels of the United States acted, were and are ample to provide all legitimate material protection in case of need, either in your discretion or at the request of the duly constituted authorities of the Hawaiian islands of the lives and property of American citizens endangered or menaced, or for the prevention of lawless and tumultuous acts of disturbance of the public peace and safety.

of American citizens endangered or menaced, or for the prevention of lawless and tumultuous acts of disturbance of the public peace and safety.

"So far, therefore, as your action amounts to accordingly, at the request of the defacts sovereign government of the Hawaiian islands, the co-operation of the moral and material forces of the United States for the protection of life and property from apprehended disorders, your action is commended. But so far as it may appear to overstep that limit by setting the authority and power of the United States above that of the government of the Hawaiian islands, in the capacity of protector, or to impair in any way the independent sovereignty of the Hawaiian government by substituting the finag and power of the United States as a symbol and manifestion of paramount authority, it is disavowed.

"Instructions will be sent to the commanding officers of the United States anval forces in the Hawaiian islands, confirming and renewing the instructions heretofore given them under which they are authorized and directed to co-operate with you for the preservation of American life and property, and the maintenance of good order in case of need. You own instructions in the same sense are continued. You are accordingly authorized, upon receipt of these instructions, to arrange with the commanding naval officer, for the continued presence on shore of such a marine force as may be practical and requisite for the security of the lives and property interests of citizens of the United States and the repression of lawlessness and public disturbance threatening them, whenever in your judgment it shall be necessary so to do, or when such co-operative measures may be sought for good cause by the government of the Hawaiian islands, which the United States. Everything Moving Smoothly Under the New Government.

San Francisco, February 17.—The steamer Belgic arrived at 3 o'clock this movining from Hong Kong and Yokahama via Honolulu. She reports the American flag still flying at Honolulu and everything progressing smoothly under the new government. The steamer Mowswai, from Sydney, was at Honolulu and was to sail four hours after the Belgic.

On the 5th instant martial law was declared off by the provisional government of Hawaii. Everybody is anxiously awaiting news from the United States, and the sentiment of annexation is steadily growing.

Ex-Queen Liliuokalani is still in retirement at her private residence. She is confident that her envoy to the United States will meet a favorable reception.

The United States steamer Mobican, which sailed from Mare island navy yard January 29th, was just entering the harbor of Honolulu as the Belgic sailed, but there was apparently no necessity for any increase was apparently no necessity for any increase of the naval force.

A detachment of sailors and mariners from the United States ship Boston are still on shore, and the whites and natives are willing to await the action by the Washington government. The provisional government has in a great measure won over public confidence, having amply demonstrated its ability to cope with the situation.

Mr. Damon, minister of finance in the

On the 2d instant President Bole and the other members of the provisional government paid an official visit to the United States steamer Boston. The Hawaiian fing was run up to the mast head and a salute of twenty-one guns given in recognition of the new government.

Favorable Report on the Treaty.

Washington, February 17.—The committee on foreign relations reported to the senate in executive session today the Hawaiian annexation treaty with the recommendation that it be ratified. It was placed on the executive calendar, where it can be reached by a majority vote at any time.

A poll of the senate on the annexation of Hawaii shows 30 for, 14 against and 24 non-committal. The poll was taken to see whether the senators wouldd ratify the treaty. The chances are that they will, though many of the strongest senators oppose it may decide to talk it to death rather than see it ratified.

Washington, February 17 .- In the senate the sundry civil appropriation bill having been taken up at the close of the morning business, a vote was taken on the amend ment retaining the laws for the supervision of federal elections. It was agreed to, yeas 27, nays 24. The senate then, on motion of Mr. Sherman, proceeded to executive business.

debated upon a point of order made by Stewart.

After twesty minutes of seclusion the doors were reopened and the consideration of the sundry civil appropriation bill was proceeded with. All amendments which had been reported from the committee on appropriations having been disposed of, various other amendments of no public importance, reported from the committee by Mr. Allison, its chairman, were agreed to. The bill was then open to general amendment. Mr. Sherman offered his 3 per cent bond issue amendment. As soon as it was read the point of order was made by Mr. Stewart against the amendment as general legislation on appropriation bills.

After a brief discussion the vice president made his ruling. The amendment, he said, made an appropriation to carry out the existing law and limited the authority of the secretary of the treasury under the existing law. It did not, in the opinion of the chair, propose new legislation. The chair, therefore, held the amendment to be in order.

Mr. Stewart appealed from the decision.

Mr. Stewart appealed from the decision and Mr. Hoar moved to lay the appeal on the table.

That motion was agreed to—yeas 28. nays 18. So the amendment was decided to be in order.

Mr. Mills moved to strike out of the amendment the words: "Five years after this date," so as to leave the bonds redeemable at the pleasure of the government and he argued in support of that motion.

Mr. Sherman said that if the proposition was not one to provide for an emergency he should feel disposed to accept Mr. Mills's amendment, but he thought that it would not be wise to venture on the sound amount of 3 per cent bonds would ever be issued. At the same time the contingency should be provided for. Power to issue bonds would, he thought, enable the secretary of the treasury to maintain the gold reserve without his issuing them. The merits of the amendment avere discussed for the rest of the day and adjournment came before the debate closed.

New York, February 17.—(Special.)—The rules committee of the league and American Association of baseball clubs, Measrs. Brush, Byrnes and Von-der-horst, have been in frequent session at the Hoffman house since Thursday, the 9th instant. The task before the committee was an unusal one, for the reason that the propriety of making any changes in the playing rules of baseball was seriously questioned in many quarters, while it was maintained by many patrons of the game that some changes should be made in the way of progress or development. The committee will report to the league substantially as follows:

Third. Abolition of the flat bat.

Fourth. A lucid definition of a balk ball.

Fifth. A simplification of the rules pertaining to the actual playing of the game.

Sixth. The codifying of the rules applying to the duties, power and responsibilities of umpires. Seventh. A rule governing official scor-ers, which provides that a player who makes a sacrifice hit which advances a base-run-

Topeka, Kas., February 17.—After a consultation, lasting from 9 o'clock until 12:30 o'clock, Governor Lewelling signed the peace agreement between him and the re-publican house of representatives. News of the settlement of the revolution was received in the republican hall with the wild-est demonstration of joy. The terms of peace are a complete back-down by the gov-ernor, and the republicans claim that they have gained all that they ever demanded. The decision of the courts is now awaited with great anxiety. The populists are very much discouraged at the turn affairs have taken, and are abusing the governor for agreeing to the terms of peace. Many of the leaders say that they will not obey the supreme court if it decided against them.

SOLVING THE QUESTION.

What to Do with Tennessee's Convicts-The Lease Will Not Be Renewed. Nashville. Tenn., February 17 .- (Special.)

The special committee engaged in investi-gating the pentientiary question with a view The special committee engaged in investigating the pemtentiary question with a view of drafting a bii! for the erection of a new penitentiary and its control, today took the deposition of Captain F. S. Harris, exwarden, who stated that the cost of feeding prisoners is, on an average, only 14 cents per day, and that 500 men could be clothed, fed and guarded for $47,900, and at $1 per day their labor wald amount to $155,000. The committee has about decided on the outlines of the bill to be sustained. It is practically agreed that the present lease will not be renewed after its expiration. Convicts will, thereafter, be worked on the state's account. A new prison will be built either in middle or East Tennessee, the location depending on the site of land purchased, which must be of peculiar adaptabilities. First, a suitably coal field will be purchased and as near it as possible a farm of not less than 1,000 acres. These finds, if possible, must be on or near a railroad. One prison will be erected, if it can be arranged, between the farm and the coal field.

The outer shell of the prison will be of massive stone. The interior corridors and cells will be made of steel, three tiers high, after the latest plans for sanitation and convenience. All the convictes will be worked cells will be made of steel, three tiers high, after the latest plans for sanitation and convenience. All the convicts will be worked either on the farm or in the mines. The present penitentiary will be sold to the best possible advantage. This, however, will create but a small part of the fund necessary to the erection of the new prison. The bulk of the money will probably be raised by the issuance of bonds to the extent of not more than $600,000. The committee seems determined to rake the penitentiary question out of politics, and at the same time make the prison self-sustaining.

The Situation at Charleston. The Situation at Charleston.

Charleston, S. C., February 17.—(Special.)—
There were no new developments in the railroad tax cases here today. The four sheriffs are still out on parole, in the custody, however, of the United States marshal. The general opinion is that they will purge themselves unless the governor comes down here and pays their fine. Nothing has as yet been heard of the next move of the state authorities. The action of the court is generally endorsed by the most violent states' rights people after reading the opinion of Judge Goff.

Will Try It another Way.

It was ascentaned today that the administration has the railroads on the hip on a question of taxation and that it proposes to let the ax fall. The law requires that the roads shall make tax returns by townships. Chief Clerk Norton, of the comproller's department, said today that some of the roads had made them out by counties and that unless corrected by next Monday a penalty of 50 per cent will attach. Mr. Norton stated that the railroads thought they knew so much about the law that they could go ahead and get out of this as best they could without any pointers from the administration. It is understood that the work of ascertaining such information and correcting the roads would take several weeks at least.

Bribery of Jurors Charged.

Columbia, S. C., February 17.—(Special.)—
In the circuit court at Anderson today Solicitor Ansel created a sensation by reading affidavits from trustworthy persons alleging that efforts had been made on the part of the defense in the case of J. Mills Sullivan, on trial for murder, to bribe the jury. These affidavits give specifications and charge that Policenian B. P. Tranmell had said that he had $2,000 to "work" jurors with; that he had paid a juror, whose name is given, $100 and that he thought he could work others. A rule to show cause was issued and the matter will be heard tomorrow.

TRADE NOT SO GOOD

As It Should Have Been at Southern Business Centers.

OWING TO PREVAILING WET WEATHER

Which Checked the Movements of Commercial Travelers

AND MADE COUNTRY ROADS IMPASSABLE

An Increase in Imports and a Decrease in Exports During the Month-Cotton Movement Very Small.

New York, Februry 17.—Bradstreet tomorrow will say:

Features of the general trade situation this week include a check to business south and in portions of the west and north because of unfavorable weather and resulting in bad roads. The leading grocery staples, grain, cotton, pork, low grades of cattle and hogs, are lower in price while advances are noted in print cloths, leather, hides, lard, sugar, white pine lumber, rubber goods and is Bessemer pig iron and steel at Pittsburg. The decrease of 1-8 cents in cotton prices appears, based on some unexpectedly free movement which points, unless there should be a perpendicular drop in receipts soon, to a crop of not far from 6,500,000 bales instead of lower totals so vigorously advanced a few weeks ago.

Telegrams from leading southern markets agree that continued wet weather has had an unfavorable effect on the general trade, and muddy roadways have checked the movements of commercial travelers as well as mercantile collections. At Nashville, country merchants are making purchases in person rather more numerously than elsewhere, but Charleston, Memphis, Atlanta, Birmingham and Galveston unite in reporting the other features mentioned. The carnival has interfered with the wholesale trade at New Orleans. Depression in cotton prices is reported responsible for some of the check to trading on the part of interior southern merchants.

What Dun Says. New York, Februry 17.-Bradstreet

R. G. Dun & Co's. weekly review of trade will say: The anxious efforts by banks for an issue of bonds by the treasury and the refusal of the president to authorize it, caused apprehension and depression during the most of the week. Discretionary power was finally given to Secretary Foster to issue bonds, if it should become absolutely necessary, but it it stated that he believes no necessity exists. Moreover, quite a large purchase of securities on foreign account are reported, which would cancel heavy adverse merchandise balances, and to that extent prevent gold shipments.

balances, and to that extent prevent gold shipments.

Outside of financial infinences, the course of business is undisturbed. Its volume is still large, though somewhat affected by recent storms, and there are fewer signs than usual of unsound or unhealthy conditions, though at many points collections are somewhat slow. At most southern points business shows some improvement and is fair for the season, though the movement of cotton is small and prices are somewhat lower.

In the iron trade no distinct improvement is seen, for while business is large, prices are entirely demoralized by the intense competition. Rails are an exception, for 75,000 tons have been sold without a reported change in price, and structural works are well employed, though at very

MRS DAVIS'S WISHES

That Richmond Should Be the Burial Place of the Family Will Be Carried Ont.

Richmond, Va., February 17.—Mayor Ellyson has returned from New York, where he went to see Mrs. Jefferson Davis relative to the removal of the remains of Mr. Davis to Richmond for reinterment on May 30th. Mrs. Davis expressed a desire that everything pertaining to the removal be left with the Jefferson Davis Memorial Association of which Mayor Ellyson is president. The remains are now in the vault of the Army of Northern Virginia in Metairie cemetery. New Orleans.

General John B. Gordon, commandant of the United Confederate Veterans, has been written to in reference to the matter and John Glynn, Jr., commander of the Louisian division of the United Confederate Veterans, has been asked to take charge of the avangments necessary to the removal.

It was the intention of the association to make Richmond the burial place of the Davis family. This also meets the views of Mrs. Davis, and she has expressed the wish that the remains of her deceased children and grandchildren be brought here. Two children are buried in Memphis, one in Washington and one is already interred in Hollywo I. The remains of a grandchild, daugher of Mrs. Hayes, at 10 be brought here.

CAPRIVI'S DETERMINATION.

He Says He Will Not Resign but Stand by the Emperor.

Berlin, February 17.—Chancellor Captivi delivered a powerful address in the refiching today. He declared, with unusual vehemence, that the attacks which the agrarian and anti-Semetic parties were directing against the government and himself would never move him to resign. If the agrarians, he exclaimed, flid any special grievances or desires, let them declare what they are, and the government will give them due consideration; but vague attacks must be stopped. It was impossible that the government should accept bimetal-lism, because it was neither able to propound a scheme acceptable to England, and to disregard the international markets. The agrarian and anti-Semetic movements, the chancellor declared, were certain of final overthrow. The promoters of anti-Semetian were already running with socialism. Personally, the chancellor declared in conclusion, he would prefer to relinquish the burdens of office, but in accord with that spirit of old Prussian fidelity, he would remain to fuffil his duty and to serve the interests of the emperor and of the empire. The speech has caused a great sensation, as it is believed to mark a complete rupture between the government and the conservatives.

An Interesting Case In Columbus-Other

CHATTAHOOCHEE CONTESTANTS.

An Interesting Case In Columbus—Other News from that City.

Columbus, Ga., February 17.—(Special.)—A very interesting case is being heard in chambers by Judge W. B. Butt, in this city. It is the contested election of county officers in Chattahoochee county. One of the contestants is D. J. Fussell, democrat, against James Castleberry, third partyite, for the offices of ordinary and clerk of the superior court. These two offices are consolidated in that county. The other contestant is B. F. Bagley, democrat, against W. H. Bagley, third partyite, for the office of sheriff. The third partyandidates were elected on the face of the returns, the election having occurred on January 4th.

The testimony for the contestants was taken before Judge Miller, of Chattahoochee county, and the testimony for the contostees before Judge Woolridge. This has been submitted to Judge Butt and he is hearing the case on that testimony.

The points the contestants make are:

1. That the elections held at Harp's Mill precinct and Jamestown precinct are void, because none of the managers were sworn before holding the election.

2. The election at Harp's Mill is void because one of the managers absented himself from the polis until the election was half over.

Upon these two points the decision of the fluge hinges and if the contestants succeed in sustaining their position the democrats will be elected. The hearing of the case has been a very tedious one, it having been in progress four days.

Blandford & Grimes, of Columbus, and Eugene Wynne, of Cusseta, are the counsel for the contestants, while Peabody. Brannon, Hatcher & Martin and Thornton & McMichael represent the contestants.

Receiver Comer, of the Central railroad, has written Mayor Slade that he will be in Columbus next week to confer with a committee of citizens in regard to the discrimination against Columbus, claimed to have been instituted by the order of the Central stopping the Georgia Midland's through coach from passing over the Central's track into the union depot.

The Columbus board of trade is considering the advisability of purchasing a lot and erecting thereon a handsome outliding. They have sufficient money in the treasury to do this if it is decided upon.

The question of erecting an electric plant, to be operated by the immense waterpower that Columbus possesses is being agitated. It is claimed that by 'he expenditure of $150.000 a dam can be outlit and a plant frected that can furnish the motive power for the manufactories, the street car lines and every industry that will come to the city. Resides this, the electricity can be furnished for street lighting. To do this it will be necessary for the city to issue bonds. The bonded debt at present is only $480,800.

A SALE OF BONDS

Which Brings Up the Story of the Albany and Cordele Railroad.

Albany, Ga., February 17.—(Special.)—
Two of the leading business men of this city have just returned from a trip to New York and their mission to the metropolis has just become known. They wout there has just become known. They went there to effect the sale of $233,000 of the bonds of the Albany Invesment Com-pany, but at a price far below par.

It will be remembered that this company built the Albany and Cordele railroad, but when the road was completed it was found that the stock subscribed was not near sufficient to reimburse the builders for the money spent in completing it and so the stockholders placed the road in the Investment company's hands to make their money out of it. As before stated, $233,000 of bonds, sufficient to reimburse the stockholders and pay off the indebtedness of the road had they been floated at a fair price, were issued, but investers did not take to them readily and they could not be floated. Then the road was leased to the Sam road under what appeared to be satisfactory terms, but the failure of the bank of Americus and the placing of the Sam in the hands of a receiver transpired and the Albany and Cordele was thrown again into the hands of the Invesment company. This company again made a successful attempt to sell the issue of bonds, but at such a price to only realize a sum sufficient to pay the indebtedness of the road, leaving the stock valueless. The citizens of Albany loses about seventy-five thousand dollars in the transaction and the citizens of Americus about forty thousand dollars.

The estate of the late Colonel Nelson Tift is the biggest loser in this city. Colonel Tift having been a promoter of the road, invested $30,000 in it, which, by sale of the bonds, became a total loss. Fortunately for the stockholders in this city they are all able to stand their losses without having their business standing effected. when the road was completed it was found

A SUIT AGAINST ROME.

The Blue Ridge Marble Company Claims Damages—Arrest of an Absent Roman.

Rome, Ga., February 17.—(Special.)—A suit has been brought against Floyd county, and the amount claimed is $10,000. Yesterday HCaptain Ewing and Mr. J. H. Spuriock, attorneys for the Blue Ridge Marble Company, filed the papers with the clerk of the superior court and the suit will come to trial at the next session, of btat court. The marble people claim this money as damages growing out of transactions with the board of county commissioners more than a year ago. The company claim that they contracted with the commissioners for the erection of the new courthouse, that one of their men made frequent visits to Rome and that they mined a large lot of stone to be used in the building and incurred other expenses, and that after they had done this the county board backed down from the agreement and the contract was transferred to the present builders.

The board denies all of the allegations of the marble company and the suit will be vigorously defended by the board through their attorney, Judge Max Meyerhardt. The suit is one that will attract great interest among all classes of citizens.

A man named S. H. King, who has been wanted-in Rome for several months, has been captured and jailed at Canton. King's wife owned one-third interest in a farm and King, who controlled it, took notes for the entire rent and sold the notes to VanDyke & Henley and left the community with the money in his pocket. The other owners of the farm wanted their money and proceeded against King. He had disappeared entirely and had not been seen nor heard of until his arrest in Cherokee county, where he was passing under the name of Marion Skelton.

The Pretty Daughter of Rev. Simon Peter son Elopes, Marrying Post-master Broughton.

Madison, Ga., February 17.—(Special.)—Madison furnished one of the parties to a very sensational wedding which occurred in Edgefield, S. C., this morning.

Yesterday morning our postmaster, Mr. J. H. Boughton, boarded the fast train J. H. Boughton, boulded the new postmaster for Covington to give to the new postmaster there some information in reference to the discharge of his official duties. He evident y had no matrimonial intentions when he boarded the train but Cupid's unseen hand was destined to play a prominent part in his affairs before his return to Madison. At Covington he met with Miss Genevieve Richardson, the youngest daughter of Rev. Simon Peter Richardson, and a sweetheart of former days. An elopement was proposed and accepted. The couple boarded the eastbound fast train on the Georgia road for Greenesboro, where they alighted. There they failed to secure a marriage license on ccount of the young lady's age, and were compelled to remain until the 4:30 train this morning which they took to Augusta. Arriving at that city they boarded an outgoing train for Edgefield, S. C., where the ilken knot was tied this morning at 8:30

Mr. and Mrs. Boughton arrived in-the city this afternoon at 3 o'clock and were greeted by a large host of friends. A cargreeted by a large host of friends. A carriage was in wating for them, and they were driven to the home of the groom. Mr. Boughton is a native of New York, a republican, but a very high-toned, honorable gentleman. He has long been a resident of Madison and has been our postmaster for nearly three years. His acquaintance with his bride began last year while her father was stationed here as pastor of the Methodist church.

The suit for the hand of his daughter found no favor in the sight of Rev. Simon Peter Richardson, who is bitterly opposed to republicanism and has no love for northerners, but as love laughs at locksmiths, the reverend gentleman has found that his

FARMER SENT UP FOR TEN YEARS

Far the Slaying of Hunter-A Verdict of Voluntary Manslaughter.

Athens, Ga., February 17 .- (Special.)-We, the jury, find the defendant, Thomas Farmer, guilty of voluntary manslaughter' was the verdict rentered in Jackson superior court today. The trial has occupied three days, and in many respects has been one of the most remarkable in the criminal courts of the state. The only fact brought to light up to the trial, and which caused great popular excitement, was that Farmer shot Hunter a number of times while he was running from him, begging for mercy. The defense did not show their hand until the case was called, when they attempted to prove that Farmer was driven to the deed by continual improper proposals made to Mrs. Farmer by Hunter. These were the facts submitted to the jury, and after being out twenty-four hours they returned a verdict of voluntary manslaughter. Judge N. L. Hutchison pronounced the sentence ten years at hard labor in the penitentiary. The verdict is considered a great victory for the defense, and it is most likely that they will rest on their laurels.

THE DANGER IS OVER.

Rome, Ga., February 17 .- (Special.)-The high water scare is about over. The continued rains have caused the river to over-flow all the low lands, and to rise to within a few feet of the city level. Many merchants in the lower part of town became scared and moved up their stock, and warehousemen had all their cotton loaded in cars and hauled out city. This 9 o'clock the rains ceased falling and all danger of a freshet is passed for this time. With the exception of a few stores in the fourth ward being overflowed no damage

r is not probable that the mayor and of Macon will agree to the Georgia Agricultural Society to he state fair this year somewhere else the state fair this year somewhere else at Macon. On April 4, the city of Macon, and the transport of the city formed a contract where the society agreed to hold an anafair at Central City park for the peof twenty years, the first fair under the thact being held in the fall of 1887. At has been held every year since then, all have been successful except the one 1992. There are several causes, perhans 92. There are several causes, perhaps the exhibition last year was not a wrial success. It was a year of great usual depression throughout the state, at all business was prostrate, and the peon a state of demoralization. Then, as for stated, the management did not admit the fair at all liberally, and failed soify the public as thoroughly as should be the day. The proves and consideration. re been done. The mayor and council re never failed to faithfully discharge ir part of the contract with the society. he rounds and buildings have been furhe part of the contract with the society. The rounds and buildings have been fursished the society each year under the conditions of the contract. The society must unifest more life and activity, more propositions and enterprise if they wish the annual fairs to be successful. The society has not been as alive to the subject as a should have been. Six fairs have been led at Macon since the contract between the city and the society went into effect. It is very probable that the seventh will be led here this year.

United States District Marshal.

United States District Marshal. Who will be United States district marfor the southern district of Georgia interesting question just now. This is generally considered a senatorial pointment. That is to say, the president mally appoints the man recommended by two United States senators. The potant is now held by Mr. Walter P. Leverett is also counting on the endorsement of Colquitt. Mr. Hodgkins is also very strongly endorsed, he says. The trength and influences of the other candidates are not known in Macon, though these gentlemen may also be strongly maked. It is presumed that Felder, of Americus, will have the support of Speaker

Crisp. None of the candidates seem to be sure of the support of the other Georgia congressmen. The candidates calculate on the office paying from $50.000 access (2000) e office paying from $5,000 to $6,000 per er. Perhaps it will not pay so much if he marshal does not personally go out in he "field" and make arrests. Marshal lookett has been very active in his man-gement of the office, and goes on a "raid" a quick as any of his deputies.

Newsy Notes.

The Macon Hussars having changed from a caralry to an infantry company, Captain Oven T. Kenan packed and shipped today to Savannah, to Troop A., the accountments, etc., of the Hussars used for the avalry service. The accountments, etc., were in splendid condition, and it is doubtful if there is another company in the state that could deliver up its effects in near so accelent fix. Captain Kenan kept the Hussars in prime condition, and at inspections, his company won high praise from that and federal officers. Captain Kenan is one of the best commanders in the volunter service of the south. As a drillmaster and disciplinarian he has no superior. Ordinary Wiley has received from the state twenty-five copies of the acts passed by the last legislature. A copy will be given to each justice of the peace in the county, the different courts and to each representative.

It may not be generally known that the simuture of Judge Emory Speer to a pass on the Central railroad is as good as that of Receiver H. M. Comer. The road is in the hands of the court, over which Judge Speer presides, and this is the reason, no doubt, why casses given by Judge Speer are good on the Central United three District Attorney Marion Erwin had occasion to go down the Central 10 and had scanged to take charge of the Oover and Statesboro road as temporary e the conductor thought this was semething unusual, but he did not fail to recognize the pass, and Mr. Erwin role the same as though the pass was signed by Receiver Comer or coneral Superintendent Wadley.

The house decorations on the occasion of the brilliant reception last night by Mr. and Mrs. Calvin W. Hendricks, were the most elaborate, beautifully and artistically arranged of any seen in Macon this season. There was a profusion of palms, smilax and roses. Tetween the folding the pass of the parlors was a portiere of smilax, ted hack with ribbon. The decorations were funished by Plorist Charley Woodrull, and in arranging them he did some of the finest work of his life.

There was a brilliant wedding at the Methodist church in Monticello, Fla., on Wednesday night of interest to Maconites and many other Georgians. Miss Abbie Budd was united in marriage to Mr. George D. Monroe, of Quincy. The church had been beautifully decorated for the occasion, and was crowded to its utmost. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Miller Gordon, of Macon, and has often visited here. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Downan, of Wesley Monumental church, of Savannah, assisted by the pastor, Rev. T. C. Bradford. After the ceremony at the church a brilliant reception was held at the residence of Mr. J. T. Budd, Jr. The presents were numerous and costly. The bride is a very beautiful and accomplished lady. The groom is engaged in the banking business at Quincy, and is highly esteemed by all who know him. Mr. and Mrs. Mouroe have gone north on a bridal tour.

Mrs. Monroe have gone north on a bridal tour.

Some of the Ohio excursionists who went to Pine City, on the Sam road, are in Maccon tonlight. Many of the visitors bought lots that were sold at the great sale at Pine City on Thursday. On Thursday 186 lots were sold at $40 per lot, the highest price reached for a single lot being $600. The object of the company selling the lots is not only to raise and can fruits for the market, but to build a live town, to erect varied industries, such as a canning factory, a box car factory, furniture factory, agricultural implement factory and to develop that section of the country generally. In addition to the 600 Ohioans present, there were fully 1,000 persons from the surrounding country. Speeches were made, etc. The Ohioans are greatly pleased with Georgia. The Briggs and Buesse Case-News in I Athens, Ga., February 17.—(Special.)—
The Briggs and Beusse case will go before the court again, but in a different form

Captain W. B. Burnett, one of the at-

Captain W. B. Burnett, one of the attorneys for the alleged murderer, has secured an order from Judge N. L. Hutchens, of this circuit, to have W. P. Briggs and the Beusses arraigned before him tomorrow evening on habeas corpus proceedings at Jefferson. This will be the first appearance of the Beusse boys in court and will lend new interest to the case.

It is generally believed here now that Briggs will be given bail by Judge Hutchens. Briggs has always borne a good reputation in the community, and is held as an upright, honorable man, and if Judge Hutchens cousiders this, together with a heavy bail sufficiently certain to cause him to offer himself for trial when called upon, he can admit him to bail. Briggs's past reputation will certainly go a long way in his favor. It is not known whether the Beusse boys will ask for bail or not, or whether they will secure it even if Briggs does.

The anniversaries of the two literary societies of the university are always occassions of great interest in Athens; this year will be especially so.

The Demosthenean society holds its anniversary exercises Monday, the 20th instant. This is on account of the 19th falling on Sunday. Mr. Charles R. Nisbet will deliver the oration.

On Wednesday, the 22d instant, at the chapel, the Phi Kappas hold their anniversary, and Mr. Sam C. Dean, one of the Gate City's brilliant young sons, will deliver the oration. The public is cordially invited to attend on both occassions.

That Junior Suspension.

The junior class met Dr. Boggs yesterday expeccing to be suspended, but were not. Dr. Boggs gave them a good talk and told them that the matter would be passed as he was satisfied that the majority of the class had nothing to do with burning the examination papers and that he had rather let twenty-five guilty boys essented the purior of the property one invested to the property of the property one invested the property of the property one invested to the property of t had rather let twenty-live guilty boys escape as to punish one innocent one.

Chancellor Boggs says that he did not threaten to suspend the class at all and had no intention of taking such a course, and that the report was put into circulation by some of the boys to create a sensation. He said there were any number of better methods of punishing them, had he desired to punish them at all than suspending them. mish them at all than suspending

Savannah, Ga., February 17.—(Special.)
It was by quick and determined work that Savannah retained the million-dollar appropriation and succeeded in thwarting the intention of some senators to reduce it by a quarter of a million. Long telegrams were sent by the mayor and President Pearce, of the board of trade, to the Georgia senators and a number of others, and the harbor work was saved the effects of another era of slow work.

Two of the largest establishments in the south, which have heretofore engaged in friendly competition have joined hands and will hereafter accomplish together what they have been striving to accomplish singly. The Franklin publishing house, one of the largest and most complete establishments of the kind in the south, and The Constitution book and job printing department have combined their forces, and the combination will represent larger capital, more experience and a greater degree of experience and skill than have ever been gathered together in any book publishing and job printing department in the south.

The new company will give particular attention to the publication of books, especially in the subscription department. It will also publish schoolbooks, and will gradually engage in the general publishing business. It is entirely a home institution, being provided with home capital and managed by home men. It will occupy with justifiable confidence the large field which the south offers to a book publishing establishment, and will take its place almost immediately among the noted publishing houses of the country.

It Will Not Down.

The hoopskirt will not down. That is to say, the newspapers will not drop the subject. They keep on discussing it and worrying over it. There is a great outcry because Queen Victoria appeared at one of her numerous family picnics arrayed in a hoopskirt. But it must be borne in mind that Mrs. Guelph is old and fat, and liable to get warm in a mixed crowd of her family connections; and the hoopskirt is, as you may say, a cooler.

We are firmly convinced that too much has already been said about the impending hoopskirt. The men-including the newspaper men-have made and are making a great deal too much fuss about it. If the women take a notion to wear hoopskirts, they'll wear 'em, and if they find out the men are opposed to the fashion they'll wear 'em any how just to show the female sex belongs to the great and growing party of North American inde-

The discussion of the matter in various egislatures is calculated to work great narm. If any laws are enacted against hoopskirts, the women will put 'em on and defy police and constables. They'll get 'em as big as sugar hogsheads and carise the men to weep tears of woe at the norrible spectacle. Don't they go through the streets wiping up the mud and dust with their dammy trains? Don't tall vomen wear big stripes running up and down, and short women wear 'em crossways? Do the majority of women care how they look so long as they think they

Why then, should simple-minded men sit down or stand ap and protest against the hoopskirt? If it be said The Constitution has protested, we admit it. In a noment of forgetfulness we gave utterance to a long, low wail on the subject, but accer thinking the matter over, we have determined not to stand in the way of the hoopskirt movement. We want the growing generation of young men to ee what their fathers had to stand before and during the war. The State Fair.

That excellent Georgia institution, the state fair, bids fair to be a bone of contention. Indeed, it has been such for a few weeks past. Augusta and Macon have been wrangling over it and various suggestions have been and are being made in regard to it. The matter was variously discussed at the recent meeting of the State Agricultural Society, and as it stands now, the fair will go to Macon, as usual, unless Macon lets it out of that twenty-year contract.

The sentiment of the convention seemed to be largely in favor of the fair being held in Atlanta, and should Macon release it, it would certainly come here. That an effort to get Macon to annul the contract will be made is certain; what the result will be is another matter. Atlanta has no desire to rob Macon of the fair, but if the fair wants Atlanta, why, Atlanta wants the fair, and being free to go where it pleases, we do not nesitate to say Atlanta would be the best place for it. Atlanta has in large measare all the facilities that would tend to make the fair a success and if held here it would be such financially. It would fit well here, too-a capital fair in a capitol city! One suggestion which has been made touching the state fair is that it should be governed by the rotation system, and that suggestion appears to meet with popular approval. It is endorsed by The Augusta Chronicle and other newspa

When a man runs for the Kansas legislature now he is accompanied by a Winchester rifle and a week's provisions. It is evident that our national house of representatives does not intend to let the Kansas egislature get ahead of it in the scrapping business. The cry is: "Waugh to the knife!" A Texas legislator has introduce a bill to so amend the criminal code as to authorize the killing of rapists on sight at any time within sixty days after their guilt is proven. The bill is a foolish one from several stand-points. As it is now, the class of criminals he mentions are killed "on sight" or out of

A Brooklyn court is puzzled over a suit for livorce in which the wife, who is the plaintiff, is an Armenian, and was married according to the customs of her own country. She had no voice in the selection of her husband. He was picked out for her by her elder brother, as her father was an invalid. She was blind-folded when she married, and when she first saw her husband after the wedding discovered not only that he was old and decrept, but very baldheaded. She now asks an American court to dissolve this union. The decision in the case will be interesting, as showing how far the marriage and divorce laws this country can go in overriding those that prevail in other lands than ours.

The farmers say that if all the farms in the country were sold they would not bring enough to build such roads and keep them up. They allege also that the railroads have made such highways altogether unnecessary, as the roads are now only used by the farmers in hauling their produce to the nearest market town or railway station. They assembly the roads are no longer used by the ert that the roads are no longer used by the traveling public, as they were fifty years ago, and taxes are already as high as the farmers can endure. They want the bill defeated and the roads let alone.

Until within a few days of the time allowed them to send these bonds to headquarters but few more than half the number had come to the front. It was at that time that the Constitution printed the story of their sensational delay, announcing that unless they were all in the hands of the comptroller general by the 14th of February the governor would be notified and would have to, in compliance with the law, call a new election in those counties the law, call a new election in those counties where the tax collectors and receivers and not given bond. There were but few who had not made those bonds when the time came for them to do it. The few who did not actually have their bonds in the hands of the comptroller general had notified him that the bonds had been duly made out in the counties and would reach him in a few days over.

Of course, however, there are always a few who do not make Londs at all, and in these cases the governor has to order a new election. Ometimes the officials find themselves unable to give bond.

A remarkable incident of this kind was recalled by Captrin Charley Furlow, of the tax department yesterday when he told about a case in one of the most progressive and prosperous counties in the state. It seems that there was a fellow there who had been running for tax collector ten years. Each year he had been defeated, but with that faith of the average Georgia politician he persisted in making the race as the years rolled by, and finally, on the score of "all things comes to him who waits," he was so fortunate as to be elected to the office. He was slow about making bond, and slowly the days sped by until the limit had been reached and the governor had to call a new election, and the county had to elect another man who could give the necessary bond. The poor fellow who had been running for the office or ten years had to flually suffer the increased disappointment of being in the office.

marked General Phil Cook, secretary of state, yesterday.

"They had some of the hardest fighting to do of any men who ever went to war. They had to stand up in the swamps of Florida and be shot at by the Indian warriers from every bush that could be manipulated as a hiding place. The Indians had no such thing as a regularly organized battle front. They would come down on you here and there all of a sudden and kill a fellow before he knew where he was or what he was doing. It was deadly warfare for the very reason that no man was ever safe in his boots."

Major Warren's Vacation. Major Warren's Vacation.

Major Warren, the clerk in the executive department, who was suddenly seized with sickness from exhaustion Thursday, left Pesterday for a rest in Florida.

The trip was a necessity. His physician recommended it to him and urged him not to delay it a day. The truth is all of the clerks in the accounts of the accounts of the clerks in the accounts of t in the executive department are over-worked They have had more to do since the pension and county commissions came in upon then than was ever known to the department be than was ever known to the department before.

Major Warren is one of the most faithful men in the service of the state that has even held any position at the statehouse. He has been in the office of executive clerk ever since the term of Governor Smith. For the past twenty years and more he has never left his desk. When he went away yesterday at the instance of his physician to rest he started upon the only vacation he has ever enjoyed since he has been in the service of the state. It is becoming clearer and clearer as the days go by that it was a palpable outrage that the last session of the general assembly did not grant the request of the governor for another clerk to lighten the work in the department.

Columbia, S. C., February 17.—(Special.) To let bad enough alone, or to plunge intanother sea of trouble, seems to be the question Governor Tillman is wrestling with since the adverse decision in the railroad cases though his attorneys are understood to have abandoned hope and concluded that it is time to quit.

The governor held a long conference with The governor heft a long conference with Attorney General Ira B. Jones and Assistant Attorney General Buchanan today. When asked to make a statement as to his future course he said he had nothing to say, bur will wait and watch developments.

The railroad officials and attorneys, flushed with victory, are more confident and less reticent. One of the leading railroad attorneys said that he did not believe that the state would carry the case to the supreme court of the United States. At least the state's leading attorney, Mr. Samuel Lord, of Charleston, had said to him: "I will not be dragged into the supreme court and made ridiculous." This sentiment was also concurred in by the Hon. Ira B. Jones in an expression to this same gentleman.

"And if they do carry it to the supreme court the decision of Judges Simonton and Goff will be sustained." said the railroad man. "The question will be one of jurisdiction sitgospher." said he "and should the

THERE WAS A HEAVY FOR

Which Interfered with the Naval Experiments at Port Royal.

Port Royal, S. C., February 17.—The Vesnvius remained in the lower harbor last night and found herself this morning surrounded by a heavy fog, which showed no signs of lifting until nearly 2 o'clock in the afternoon.
The Wahnetta lay at Beaufort dock over night and went down to the naval station to coal early this morning. When she started for the sound it took her nearly two hours to feel her way through six miles of heavy fog, which separated her from the war ships. The experiments of the day began with a repetition of the last test of yesterday. A shell was fired from the starboard gun of the Vesuwas fired from the starboard gun of the Vesuvius at the beach of St. Philips island, the range being similar to tast selected yesterday. The Vesuvius was considerably closer in shore when the projectile was fired than she was at the time of the previous test. This moved the range ine to a part of the beach which was level. The projectile hurled a pyramiu of sand thirty freet in the air when it struck, but there was no explosion of any kind at the point of contact. A trench ten fest long, three feet deep and one and a half feet in width was dik. The projectile took a course nearly parallel to the surface, and continued for a dislance of forty-dive feet. When unearthed fit was found pointing at an angle about two-thirds that as which it had struck. The nose of the shell was decidedly dented on one side, which rendered it impossible to withdraw and thoroughly examine the fuse. Before firing the shell the impact action of the fuse had been thoroughly examine the fuse. Before firing the shell the impact action of the fuse had been thoroughly examine the fuse. The board desired to experiment with time action only the fuse will be examined; at the leisure of the board. The only other experiment of the day was an attempted detonation of a loaded shell fired on the beach yesterday. This shell was placed in reach and connected with an electric battery stationed at 300 yards distance. The dry gun cotton of the tuse exploded with a sharp report, shattering two feet of the shell and throwing one piece of it 180 yards. Two hundred pounds of wet gun cotton was not detonated. The experiment is thought to have demonstrated either that the Rapleff fuse does not contain a sufficient charge of dry gun cotton to detonate a full load of 200 pounds of wet gun cotton, or that the connection between the two materials is not intimate enough to produce that result. Experiments with the fuse will be continued tomorrow.

NORTH CAROLINA LEGISLATURE.

The Revenue Bill Introduced in the House The Revenue Bill Introduced in the House Railroad Tax, Etc.

Raileigh, N. C., February 17.—(Special.)—
A bill was passed in the senate today incorporating the Neuse River and Swanboro railway. The senate adopted a resolution to adjourn March 4th, and made the bill to cretate the county of Eikin a speial order for next Tuesday. The finance committee today finished the revenue bill and it was introduced in the house. It provides for a tax of 20 cents on the $100.50r. provides for a tax of 20 cents on the $100 for general purposes, 15 cents for schools and is cents for pensions. The cnairman of the com-mittee says that it is hardly possible that the cents for pensions. The cnairman of the committee says that it is hardly possible that the bill will stand as to the general tax, but that the latter will be made 22 cents. The latter will be 3 cents less than the present rate.

The house discussed for three hours the bill to make it a misdemeanor to work women and minors over eleven hours a day in cotton and woolen factories. It was argued by the opponents of the bill that such a law had done much mischier in Georgia and driven capital from there to North Carolina. The bill failed to pass-yeas, 36; nays, 63.

Up to this afternoon it was thought that the state, through its legislative committee on rallways, and the Wilmington and Weldon rallways, through Warren Elliott, its president, and Harry Walters, its vice president, would come to some agreement on the question of taxation of that great corporation. Fut it is now found that there can be no agreement, the state declining to recede from its position or the rallway to modify its proposition. The committees, therefore, decided to recommend the legislature to pass an enabling act. This directs that all the property, both real and personal, of all rallways in the state be placed on the tax lists from 1898 to date. This enabling act will be introduced in both branches of the legislature next Tuesday. The whole matter is by the enabling act left to the courts. The act will render liable the property or the North Carolina and of the Cheraw rallways.

ASKING FOR AN AMENDMENT.

But Not the Repeal of Their Charter-Alli ancemen Pleading for Their Order.

Raleigh, N. C., February 17.—(Special.)—
There was an extremely interesting discussion this evening before the senate committee of the bfill to repeal the state alliance charter, the senate having agreed to give the alliance officers a hearing. All these were present. A memorial signed by them was presented urging the senate not to repeal but to amend, protesting against placing the business fund of $35,000 in a receiver's hands and alleging that this will break up the alliance, whose backing is this fund. A. W. Granchen ancemen Pleading for Their Order. and alleging that this will break up the alliance, whose backing is this fund. A. W. Graham, trustee of the fund, became much excited in the course of the long statement and said the fund was intuct and that the insination that it was about to be used for third party purposes was a reflection on his bonor. He suggested that the present charter be so amended that subscribers to the business fund could withdraw their subscriptions, and also that they should be liable only for the amount of their stock. He said there were 23,000 stockholders and that the fund increased only $2 last year. Under the present charter no money can be returned to the stockholders until the alliance ceases to exist. Last year 300 stockholders asked for their moffey. He said if the bill passed there would be trouble and a day of reckoning. The chairman of the committee said the bill was no personal reflection of Mr. Graham.

An Old Story.

From The Washington News.

I had just thrown down a newspaper in disgust. What had aroused my wrath was the report of a suit for damages. The claim was $30,000. The charge was that of meddling with a wife's affections. This, I said to myself, is modern civilisation. Such a thing would not have been possible in any other age. Two hundred years ago the offer of money in such a case would have been an insult irreparable. Today, it is demanded as a right. With that there came into my head an old story. It is now forgotten. The average modern cannot see the sense of it. To his downright spirit and club-footed intellect, the story is ridiculous. But here it is:

One day in 1634, the earl of Chandos was sitting at his wine in the Red Bull tavern. There were stories about the earl and a cer-An Old Story.

sitting at his wine in the Red Buil tavern. There were stories about the earl and a certain Lady Leveson which it would not do to repeat. Some people have wondered a little at the indifference of Sir Robert Leveson. The earl, however, on that day at the Red Buil, appeared to be entirely at his ease. But suddenly Sir Robert Leveson came into the room. He walked over to the table at which

"My lord," said he, "that is a blue napkin lying there."

Lord Chandos looked up quickly and say what he meant. what he meant.

"I beg your pardon, Sir Robert, but it is a red napkin."
Sir Robert laughed. "Shall we fight upon that, Chandos," said he.

"I will stand by my convictions," replied the earl, smiling; "let us meet at sunrise."

They met and the earl was slain by Sir-Robert Leveson. To this day nobody knows a word more than what I have told. The seventeenth century did not advertise its wrongs.

The Game Not Worth the Candle.

From The Chicago Herald.

This is more than the entire property is worth at a twenty. the entire property is worth at a twenty years' purchase valuation.

Samuel J. Tilden's Opinion.

From The Buffalo Courier.

In view of what is almost a sensation in politics—the reported selection of Judge Walter Q. Gresham to be secretary of state—it is pertinent to recall the fact that the late Samuel J. Tilden once remarked: "Mr. Cleveland is the boldest politician I have ever known."

A Remarkable Record of the Good Work to Save the Soul, Elevate and Protect the Young Men.

Twenty-five thousand young men were students in the night classes of the Young Men's Christian Associations throughout this country last year.

are wage earners, engaged in better equip ping themselves for the duties of life, is a spectacle calculated to attract the attention of the thoughtful men of this country. The statement of the foregoing fact at once an-swers the question as to whether there is a demand for these night classes. But where does Atlanta stand in regard

Few of our citizens most interested in such matters know of the splendid work being done in this line right here in our city by the Young Men's Christian Association. It is not generally understood that the Young Men's Christian Association, of Atlanta, employs competent teachers of practical studies whose services are given to the members of the association without cost

Mr. D. R. Wilder, himself an old teacher of penmanship and bookkeeping, but now a business man, has a class of forty-five young men who are studying these branches under his direction in the Young Men's Christian Association. He says: Christian Association. He says:

"Last year there was great interest in these studies, but this year there is an eagerness for knowledge displayed by these hard working young men that is inspiring, and shows how much they appreciate their opportunities.

and shows how much they appreciate their opportunities.

"You will remember," says the, "that this class is composed almost entirely of men who are supporting themselves. They know the value of time and are not afraid of work, and their desire for knowledge keeps them hard at it."

That a large class of worthy young men are deep! interested in improving themselves, one has but to note their occupation. There are in this bookkeeping class clerks, printers, cash boys, contractors, painters, stenographers, salesmen, telegraph boys, law students, collectors in banks, shipping clerks, typewriters and drivers. These are the men who will some day wield influence in the commercial and political life of this city.

But, with a view to giving the best evidence as to the value of these night classes, a few of them have been interviewed.

A. W. Langston, age eighteen, occupation, plumber, says: "I have derived great benefit, and expect, through the aid of the classes, to improve my position. I am glad the Young Men's Christian Association has given us these night classes. During the day we must work, and at night we can study here."

An Old Fact Illustrated.

One thing observed illustrates the fact that the same thing is going on now that happened many years ago when some of the men who now rank among the first busi-ness men of the state came to Atlanta as green country boys. Out of the class of forty-five nearly one-half have come to At-lanta from the country within the past three years.

"Yes," said Mr. Patterson, the well-known "Yes," said Mr. Patterson, the well-known stock broker, himself an expert accountant, who was one of the party visiting these classes, "if we had had these night classes and these wholesome surroundings in Atlanta when I was a boy we could tell a different story today of the lives of some of those who started out with us. There are hundreds of young men in Atlanta working hard all day for small salaries, who would be glad to come here at night and equip themselves for better positions without loss of self-respect, and yet, at a cost which is merely nominal. Every friend of the young men of Atlanta ought to see this work. I know they would feel about it as I do."

In the east and north, where the professor has been widely known for a quarter of a century, his appearance in any city never fails to bring out an immense audience. His reputation in that section is established. He comes south to establish his reputation among the southern people. It will not be difficult for him so to do. His mesmeric gifts are simply wonderful. Yet he does not claim to possess supernatural powers. There is nothing of the charlatan about his performance, it is a purely legitimate entertainment in the illustration of mind over matter. No theatrical entertainment, however funny it may be, can compare with Professor Carpenter's entertainment. It is more laughable. It is entertainment to like the professor carpenter's not bored with long diatribes on occuit art. One incident follows another in quick succession, and the two hours consumed by the entertainment pass before one knows it. In addition, Professor Carpenter will introduce for the first time on any stage Miss Viola Gray, a Georgia giri, who, it has been discovered, possesses wonderful psychical powers.

There will be authorized delegates from all parts of the world, and the deliberations of the body will be felt in the cause of Chris-

Mr. Collins is stopping at the residence of Mr. John F. Barclay on West Peachtre street. He was seen by a representative of The Constitution last night and spoke with much enthusiasm in regard to the work of the approaching convention. In appearance, Mr. Collins is a most attractive gentleman, and his conversation is in happy accord with the first impression that is made upon the stranger. He is the advance agent of the work, and his duties carry him into all parts of the coun-

the advance agent of the work, and his duties carry him into all parts of the country. He is thoroughly posted in regard to all matters connected with practical Christianity and has the happy faculty of making himself easily understood.

"I will be in the city," said he, "for two or three days and while here will not only arrange for a place of meeting, but will also obtain rates in order to secure a large attendance of delegates. You have no idea as to the magnitude of the convention. The last one was held in the city of Boston and there was an aggregate attendance, during the convention, of 50,000 Christian workers. There were as many as 3,000 in attendance daily, and these were from all parts of the world."

Mr. Collins will make a talk tomorrow morning at Trinity Methodist church and in the afternoon at the Young Men's Christian Association. At night there will be a general meeting at the First Methodist church and several of the pastors of the leading churches have signified their intention of recalling their appointments in order to give their congregations the opportunity of hearing Mr. Collins. He will make a talk tonight at the Barclay mission on Marietta street.

Meeting at the Governor's Mansion.

There will be a meeting of the prominent citizens of Atlanta, including the ministers and active Christian workers of the city, at the governor's mansion next Monday night for the purpose of confering with Mr. Collins in regard to the convention, and to ascertain the proper plan to adopt in order to insure a successful meeting at this place. The exact time and place for holding the convenion will be determined during Mr. Collins's visit to the city. It will be in session for seven days. Among those who will attend the convention will be Mr. Ira D. Moody, the celebrated evangelist, and many other prom-ment church workers, renowned through inent church workers, renowned through-out the country.

The officers of the association in addition to the board of managers are Rev. R. A. Torrey, president, Chicago, Ill.; Hon. W. H. Howland, ex-mayor of Toronto, Cana-da, vice president, and Rev. J. C. Collins, of New Haven, Conn., secretary and treas-

There will be a meeting of the Evangelical Ministers' Association next Monday morning in the basement of the First Methodist church.

The object of the meeting will be, like the other, to confer with Mr. Collins in regard to the character and object of the convention, and in what manner they can aid him in his Christian work. The visit of Mr. Collins is a very important one and he will spare no pains to meet the clergymen of the city and to inform them clearly as to his important errand to this city. men of the city and to into them them the as to his important errand to this city.

The selection of Atlanta as the place of meeting for the convention is due to the efforts of Mr. John F. Barclay, who is an active member of the association. He carried the question over a pressing invitation from the common council of the city of Toronto and other strong inducements from other sections of the country.

It will be a great convention and will gather into the cty limits thousands of Christian workers from every land and sea.

THE SHRINERS LEAVE TOWN.

The Medinah Temple Fellows Take In the Town and Then Quietly Steal Away.

The Medinah temple Shriners took Atlanta and walked away with her yesterday.

They were taken in hand by fellow Shriners from Yaarab temple early in the morning and driven over the city. After seeing the town from east to west they saw it from north to south. Then they came back to the hotels and were on their train and ready to go at high noon. The St. Bernard drill, which was to have taken place in the morning, was not given by the drill corps. It was to have taken place in the street near the Grady statue. Town and Then Quietly Steal Away.

It was to have taken place in the street near the Grady statue.

The Shriners fired several bombs as their train pulled out of the carshed, which brought many citizens out from their places of business and sent a crowd of curious people to the depot to see what had happened.

The bombs were thrown high in the air and exploded while up, making a loud naise and puzzling all the policemen of the city, for they could not tell where the noise came from and what was the cause of the taken.

But, then it is hard for the police, or any-body else to keep up with the Shriners. They have a royal way of going as they please through this world, and have all the fun the old world can furnish.

The Shriners left yesterday at noon for Chattanooga on their way back to Chicago. They have had a giorious trip of it through the south, having been to New Oceans to witness the mardi gras, and stopping over at all of the principal cities on the way from there to Atlanta. They will stop over a short time in Chattanooga.

In Chicago last night, up to 7 o'clock, eight inches had fallen; in New York city, about four inches, and in Baltimore, about eight inches. Considerable snow also fell at Detroit, Buffalo Cincinnati and Lynchburg. In all these cities, without exception, snow was still falling at 7 o'clock, indicating the unusual extent of this severe snowstorm then ranging in the northeastern states.

The big moonshiners prison, and the wide, open yard where the mountaineers have been wont to walk and while away the hours, wore a lonesome and deserted ap-at had lost its picturesque occupants and was robbed of its former interest. The sound of laughter, of the fiddle, of the rough conversation was missing, and the jailers looked as if they had just returned from a funeral.

"I feel mighty Jonesome," said Jailer
John Corrigan; "the moonshiners dispelled the monotony of the place, and we miss them, I'll tell you. They were a jolly set, and were always in a good humor."

cupant, for the first time in its history.

Thursday there were forty-five moonshiners in the prison. Yesterday there was not one. Night before last Deputy Marshals Landers and Thomas carried twenty-one of the moonshiners to Gainesville. These prisoners lived nearer the Gainesville jail than any other prison large enough to accommodate them, and for that reason they were carried to Hall county.

Yesterday afternoon Deputy Marshals Thomas and Whatley carried seven revenue prisoners to the Cobb county fail at Marietta. The prisoners carried to Marietta were W. H. Watkins, Logan Head, E. B. Kimsey, Thomas Gazaway, James R. Gibson, Pat Little and Reuben Heard.

This left seventeen prisoners remaining in the jail here. Seven or eight of these are trusties, and work as cooks and helpers about the jail. They will remain and will be quartered in the rooms adjoining the jailer's office. The other seven or eight are prisoners against whom there are serious charges, and they will be confined in the rock portion of the fail along with the state and county prisoners.

In the talk about meningitis at the jail the jailers take but little stock, but they are going to thoroughly renovate and overhaul the moonshiners' quarters right away. It will be whitewashed anew and everything possible done to increase its appearance and cleanliness. Jailer Corrigan said yesterday that when he gets through with the work of repairing and renovating the wooden jail it will look like a new one. It will be supplied with ample bathing facilities, and nothing that will add to its healthfulness and comfort will be left undone. No revenue prisoners will be received at the jail until the work of renovating is done.

CARMENCITA AND COMEDY. The Spanish Dancer Had an Ovation at the Grand Last Night. Carmencita and "The Prodigal Father" filled be Grand last night. It was another beautiful audience, in keeping with the magnificent house. There were almost as many brilliant box parties as on the opening, just a week be fore, and every time an audience assembles in the Grand, it falls more in love with the

The play is styled 'a folly comedy." It is principal characters are in excellent has principal characters are in excellent hades and the piece goes with uneading merriment from first to lass. The whole gamut of laughter is run from the light rippling planissimo to the thundering roars. Nobody pays much attention to the story but every one is intent on what is going on at the moment, and is wondering what surprising thing will come next. George Denham, young George Boni-face, Miss Blanche Chapman Ford and a lit-tle girl named Irene Franklin, keep the audience entertained. Mr. Deaham has the role of an ciderity gentleman of sporting tendencies, and he is very amusing. Mr. Denham never disappoints and whatever the character makes disappoints and whatever the character makes it unique. Mr. Boniface can do more funny things in a minute than any of the younger actors on the stage. Whether in light opera or refined comedy, he is a character which is clearly defined and always remembered. He has an eccentric part in "The Prodigal Father," and his farcical encounter with the elderly Munchausen runs the thermometer of mirth up to the highest mark. Mr. Denham has the second act and Mr. Boniface the third. Between them there is no cessation of diversion.

has the second act and Mr. Boniface the third. Between them there is no cessation of diversion.

Miss Ford had a good share in the funmaking, and the tot just mentioned is clever dar beyond her years. She is a precocious little actress and has a voice which is clear and matured. "Cute" is the term usually applied to children approaching her in manner, but that does not do her complete justice.

Mr. George Gaston does an odd musical skit, which throws the audience in a long spasm of laughter.

"The Prodigal Father" keeps an audience laughing for two hours and a haif.

Carmencita appeared between the second and third acts and was received with entusiasm. It was the same Carmencita who crowded DeGive's last summer for two weeks, and Atlanta welcomed her back in a most hearty manner. She was smiling and seemed to feel at home with triends. The Spanish students are not with the company, but there is one to lead the Spanish airs to which she dances in her own fascinating way. No one else has those steps and that manner. Carmencita gave two of her familiar dances and then, in response to prolonged applause, returned in a picturesque costume and gave a military step. It caught the audience and the pretty Spanish senorita way called back repeatedly. She came out time and again and threw kisses to the house. It was a handsome ovation and she appreciated it and enjoyed it. She appears this afternoon and again to night, between the second and third acts, at each performance.

AT THE EDGEWOOD.

The Ricketts-Mathews company celebrated its fifteenth performance in this city yesterday afternoon at the Edgewood Avenue theater. "The Danites" Jacquin Miller's thrilling melodrama was the play, and the large audience attendance upon the occasion, certainly testifies to the manner in which the Ricketts-Mathews organization is rated by theatrical Atlanta. The players were all heartily applauded for the splendid and interesting way "The Danites" was presented.

This afternoon a popular price matinee will be given.

The negro is John Simmons, sixteen years old, of 94 Rhodes street. He was arrested in an alley near his home last night about 8 o'clock by Patrolmen Lampkin and W. H.

Late yesterlay afternoon he approache Mrs. Ozburn near her home on Davis street, and caught gold of her by the arm. He made an insulting remark to her, but she was not frightened, and with a vigorous move ment she tore loose from his grip on he arm. She struck at him with her and the negro, taken aback by her show of courage, took to his heels and fied. She followed him for two blocks, and then hurrying home she reported the matter to Officer Ozburn was at home and off duty, but he determined to follow the young negro. He went to the home of Patrolman Lampkin, near by, and secured his aid in searching for the negro.

They had cotten from Mrs. Ozburn a good description of her assailant. She had told them that be was a negro about sixteen or seventeen years old, but large for his age.

For three hours the two officers, who were both off duty at the time, searched the locality for the negro. Their patience was finally rewarded by success. Simmons was found hiding in an alley near his home.

The youthful brute was frightened half to death, and could scarcely talk. It occurred to the omcars that he was the same negro who attacked Miss Sisk, and they carried him to that young lady's home on Mangum street.

Simmons was instantly recognized by Miss Sisk as the one who accosted her on Rhodes street last Wednesday. She was positive about the negro's identity. Mrs. Ozburn also identified the negro as the one who had caught hold of her arm a few hours before. Young Simmons was carried to police headquarters and locked up. He is a boy in years, but is stout and well built. He lives with his father at 94 Rhodes street and has the reputation of being a bad boy.

This morning a warrant will be sworn out against the boy and he will probably have a hard time securing his liberty. The offense yesterday afternoon was his third of the kind. Tuesday he accosted Miss Sisk and the daughter of Mr. W. R. Spinks. At that time a thorough search was made for the guilty negro, but he was not found. He will be made to suffer the penalty of the law.

HE SHOT THE SHERIFF.

The Man Who Shot Sheriff Carmichael Is Andrew Brown, who shot Sheriff George

Andrew Brown, who shot Sheriff George Carmichael, of Coweta county, last summer, was caught in West End last night.

Readers of The Constitution will remember the shooting of the sheriff. He went to arrest Brown, and the latter received him with a drawn pistol, shooting him in the abdomen and inflicting what was thought for several days to be a fatal wound. He recovered, however, and is now able to attend to his duties.

The shooting of the popular sheriff excited the people of Newman to the highest pitch and if Brown had been caught a few days after the affair occurred, he would have been dealt harshly with. He made his escape and has been at liberty since until last night when located. He will be sent to Coweta county today.

Patrolmen Luck and Bailey both lay claim to having made the arrest. As there is a reward of $150 offered, the question will assume some interest. TEN GENTS OF YOUR MONEY. TWO MINUTES

KILLED AT NORCROSS.

A Negro Brakemen Instantly Killed by Passenger Train Last Night.

Levi Ferguson, a negro thirty years old, who lives in Atlanta, was run over and kill-el by passenger train No. 10, of the Richmond and Danville road at Norcross last night at 10 o'clock.

Ferguson left Atlanta on his regular run lars night at 8 o'clock. He was on the first section of freight train No. 40, in charge of Conductor Z. V. Rainey. At Norcross the Conductor Z. V. Rainey. At Norcross the freight train entered the side track to allow north bound passenger train No. 10 to pass.

Fergason was sent ahead to the switch to be in readiness to change it so as to let his train out as soon as the passenger train passed. He had been there nearly half and hour when No. 10 passed. After the train went thundering by the engineer of the freight train saw no light at the switch and investigation revealed the dead body of Fergusen lying beside the track.

The body was terribly mangied, having been run over by the passenger train. It is supposed that Fergusen sat down on the track to await the coming of the train, and while waiting fell asiep. His body will be sent to Atlanta this morulng.

Railroad V. M. C. A. Progress.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Rev. C. P. Williamson, pastor of the Central Christian church, will address the meeting for railroad men on the topic, "Character-Self-Built, God Built." Mr. Williamson is an earnest and forcible speaker, thoroughly in sympathy with railroad men, and it will be a privilege to hear him. The meeting will be held at the department rooms, 42 1-2 East Wall Breet.

Next Tuesday will be a red letter date with the department. The regular monthly members' entertainment will be held in the evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. An excelent programme, of a musical and literary character, has been arranged and an evening of rare enjoyment is in store for the railroad people. Atlanta's well known male quartet—Professor B. C. Davis, W. S. Garfield, D. E. Shumaker and A. E. Wheeler—will furnish the vocal music; Miss Lula Belle Dodge and Miss Pinkie Eddins will give piano selections; Messra. Robert Woodruff, F. S. Mims and Gerald Norris will render pleasing numbers on piano, guitar and French harp. Miss Mamie Johnson and Miss Annie Mattison will furnish the elocutionary parts. This will make a fine programme, and as it is free to all members, their families and invited friends, there will no doubt be a full house.

THE NEW YORK MARKET.

NEW YORK, February 17.—The stock market today was a remarkable one, not only for the volume of business transacted, but for the width of fluctuations, and the rather neutral result of the day's operations. Bears were out in full force and made one of the most vigorous drives of the season against Reading and leading Industrial shares, but at the close of the day only Reading, New England and Cordage showed any material loss, while there were few important galus, and among the general railroad list changes were about equally divided between gains and losses of small fractions. Reading opened at 46.5-8 and steadily declined to 40.5-8 and though it railled to 42. failed to hold the improvement and closed at 40.7-8, a net loss of 5.5-8 per cent for the day, while transactions reached an enormous total of over 400,000 shares, New England opened at 46, and at one time sold up to 46.7-8, but from that point retired rapidly to 41.3-4, raillying to 43.1-2 at the close, a net loss of 212. The early efforts of the bears were directed largely against Sugar and Cordage, and the former was driven down 3 per cent to 121, while the latter, after opening at 67, retired to 61.1-2. Declines in these stocks were accomplished by rumors of disagreement in the Cordage pool, as to the amount of stock to be accumulated, and of pool liquidation in Sugar, while, certainly, both were without support of any kind. Manipulators of these stocks, however, took hold of them later in the day, and Sugar was brought to 125, and Cordage from 61.1-2 of 43.4. Sugar finally closed at 124.1-2, with a gain of 7.8 per cent, but Cordage was 2.1-4 lower. The rest of the Industrials sympathized on the scale with these leaders and their final changes are, in all cases, insigniced with a gain of 2.1-8 per cent, which was entirely in the nature of a raily from its late depression. Railrond shares were fairly well held, but were compelled to yield to the influence of these sharp declines, and despite the support given by London, buying of 8t. No. 2. "In consequence of the small demand from spinners today, feeling here is sceptical with regard to the rumored settement of the strike, but we think this scepticism results from the fact that spinners have been taken unawares and are short of cotton. We are reliably informed that an agreement of settlement has already been signed, but not yet made public, hence we regard any subsequent hitch unlikely. Our information first-handed." No. 3. "The market is affected favorably by the rumor that the operatives offered to compromise. We are without sufficient data to definitely confirm this." No. 6. "The settlement of the strike is denied; nothing definite. A meeting of the operatives will be held tomorrow." We quote the above in full, as they deal fully with the controlling factor in the cotton farket at present. The course of prices in Liverpool would seem to confirm the idea that if the strike is not settled it is rapidly approaching an adjustment. Futures there at one time today were about 10-64d. higher than yesterday's close. Part of this improvement was lost before the close of the day's business, and final prices are from 6 to 7 points above yesterday. The bears point to the small spot sales of only 7,000 bales as evidence that the strike is not settled, and it is possible that the manufacturers having not yet secured their supplies of raw cotton may further delay its adjustment for the effect that such delay would have upon the market. But it is becoming adily more evident that the existing profit between the prices of yarn and cotton make it an economic paradoz that any large propertion of the crop continues on a scale that surprises even the bulls by its smallness. Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager. CHICAGO, February 17.—Wheat was steady and quite active the early part of the session, but soon became heavy. Although the buying was liberalby preity strong parties around 7tc, yet the market was rather heavy and showed no signs of an immediate rally. The general trade is rather bearish in New York, Objecago, 8t. Louis and other markets—New York especially so, due in a measure to the decline in atocks, the unsettied feeling in money matters, light clearances, reported poor demand for fiour abroad, lower Liverpool, increased receipts at the primary points and a general snow storm prevailing throughout a greater portion of the winter wheat region.

Receipts of corn were over the estimate, and after the first opening the market became heavy, declining about 15c, ralled a little, closing steady. Cash and sample lots of oats and corn were unchanged. Wheat was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the contract was about 8c lower both for No. 2 and No. 3 and other lower december of the lower december of the lower lower december of the lower december of the lower lower lower lower lower lower lower lower lower lowe quite active the early part of the session, but soon be their construction and finally secured the adoption of an ordinance imposing a tax of $200 upon dealers in the goods.

The fight was a long one, but Mr. Woodward was persistent and when the ordinance was adopted he was the recipient of many nice notes from ladies who were opposed to the cigarette habit. Many attempts were made to kill the ordinance before it was adopted and among those who fought it the hardest were some of those who dealt in the weed which had been rolled into the rice paper. But when the ordinance went into effect those who dealt in the cigarettes effect those who dealt in the cigarettes and the material were compelled to pay into the city treasury $200 each. There were enough of them in the city to make the entire receipts from that source something like four thousand six hundred dollars and the manner thus collected want towards. the money thus collected went towards paying the running and other expenses of the

the money thus collected went towards paying the running and other expenses of the city.

Two weeks ago Mr. Dimmock, the junior member of the council from the fourth ward, introduced an ordinance repealing the one imposing the tax and the paper was referred to the tax committee. That committee is composed of Mr. Rice, chairman; Mr. Shropshire, Mr. Northen, Mr. Harralson and Mr. Dimmock. The committee has met and considered the ordinance and next Monday when the general council meets two reports will be submitted. When the committee met to consider the ordinance Mr. Northen was absent and the discussion of the question was confined to Mr. Rice, Mr. Harralson, Mr. Dimmock and Mr. Shropshire. Two of the gentlemen thought the repealing ordinance should be adopted, while the other two thought that an adverse report should be made and that the original ordinance should stand.

After quite a discussion the committee found it impossible to agree and two reports were made. One report was signed by Mr. Shropshire and Mr. Rice and was adverse to the repealing ordinance. The other report was signed by Mr. Harralson and Mr. Dimmock and was favorable to the repealing ordinance. Both of these reports will be submitted to the general council next Monday and upon the question there is likely to be a long debate.

Mr. Northen, the fifth member of the committee, was not present at the meeting of the committee and has not yet attached his name to either report. He will give the matter a careful consideration and when the council meets next Monday he will be found on one side or the other.

All of the letters are inquiries from bridge-builders, who want a chance to bid on the Alabama street bridge. As soon as the bridge committee inserted the advertisements in the papers for bids with plans and specifications the letters began coming in and vesterday the clerk counted up the lot and turned them over to Mr. Joe Hirsch, chairman of the bridge committee. These letters come from almost every state in the union, while there are some which bear Canadian post marks.

The Police Commissioners.

The Police Commissioners.

The race for police commissioner is not attracting much attention. The members of the general council are taking the matter easy and when the first Monday in March comes around the members will be ready to vote for their choice. So far only three candidates are prominent in the race. They are Captain J. W. English, Mr. W. H. Venable and Mr. Josh Tye. Of course, one of the three will be left.

The Police Committee. The Police Commissioners.

The police committee met yesterday afternoon to consider two or three petitions for liquor licenses, which were referred at the last meeting of the general council. The papers were given a full investigation, but no report will be perfected until Monday morning before the general council meets.

months is a sure criterion of the excellence of the production.

The Memphis Public Ledger said of it: "The Lyceum Theater—The Westnerer' has made a decided hit. The play is an attractive one and the people presenting it are thoroughly capable and able. Mr. Joseph S. Gibbs has the title role, and his conception of the part and his interpretation of it is far beyond the average acton. In personal appearance Mr. Gibbs suits the part of the strong, stalwart young westerner. He reads his lines, too, with force, and makes the character very pleasing to the audience. The support is strong, especially that rendered by Miss Pauline Willard, who captivated the entire audience. Miss Willard is as pretty as a picture and she has genius with her good looks, therefore it is not to be wondered at if she met with a ready success."

Both are large establishments and do a heavy business annually. Both have been a heavy business annually. Both have been managed with great skill and sagacity and managed with great skill and sagacity and enjoy an enormous patronage. No publishing firms in the south stand above these. The consolidation has been under consideration for some time. Yesterday the contracts were signed and the charter is being prepared. As soon as possible the Constitution's book and job branch will be removed to the handsome and commodious building of the Franklin company at Edgewood avenue and Ivy street.

This is not a sell out by either company.

This is not a sell out by either company, but simply a sort of partnership or joint stock arrangement, entered into because it would save expense and probably produce better results.

will be $100,000. The Constitution needs more room for the publication of the paper and kindred branches of the business. Its book and job department was started about seven years ago and under the able management of Mr. W. J. Campbell has grown to enormous proportions and is the peer of any similar concern in the country. The Franklin publishing house is older and is owned by Messrs. George W. and Z. D. Harrison. Mr. George W. Harrison has been the skillful manager and has built up a trade and reputation creditable to him-self and the city of Atlanta. His company has been wonderfully successful in pub-lishing books. This will be a special feature lishing books. This will be a special feature of the new company. It will be conducted after the manner of the Harpers or Scribners and with the enormous facilities at command will be able to compete with the great publishing firms of the north.

Both establishments are finely equipped. Their plants will be combined and no facility will be lacking for turning out fine work. The name of the new company has not been positively fixed. It may be the Southern Publishing Company. Directors will be elected next week. Until the company is permanently organized Colonel W. A. Hemphill and Mr. George W. Harrison will act as trustees.

Hemphill and Mr. George W. Harrison will act as trustees.

The south needs a great publishing house and the new one will fill the bill. Every year the publication of books and periodicals grows enormously and the new firm will undoubtedly take the leading position in the southern field.

The Franklin company erected a handsome brick building last year designed especially for the publishing business. This building at Edgewood avenue and Ivy street is 50x160 feet and is four stories high. Two stories more will be added and if still more room is found necessary there is ample space on the lot, which is 100x250 feet.

The plain truth is good enough for Hood's Sarssparilla—there is no need of embellishment or sensationalism. Simply what Hood's Sarsa-parilla does, that tells the story of its merit.

For fully a month the case of E. E. Mowel against the East Tennessee road has occupied the attention of Judge Newman in the United States court and only today was argument begun. The suit involves a claim of $25,000, which Engineer Mower is suing for for injuries received. Judge Newman announced that he would allow six hours for the arguments—three hours for both sides. The opening speech was made by Judge John T. Pendleton, who spoke, in behalf of the plaintiff, for an hour and a half. Judge Rufus Dorsey followed for the defense, confining himself to the same time. Colonel Brewster spoke for half an hour yesterday afternoon and will conclude this morning. Hon. Hoke Smith will make the closing speech.

Inquiry at all the freight depots failed to give any clue and after every available step had been taken the superintendent gave it up as a hopeless affair. The first of this week, however, he received a letter stating that the boxes had been destroyed in a wreck on the Pennsylvania road. Other boxes have been ordered.

HE WANTED TO DIE. A Young Man of Nashville Makes Two Suicidal Attempts.

Nativille, Tenn., February 17.—(Special.)—John H. Samuels, a young man of high standing, and a clerk in the office of the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, in this city, made two attempts at suicide here in the past twenty-four hours. Last night he returned from a neighboring town where he and a number of companions had been on a spree. He had not only spent all of the money he had during the trip, but was very despondent. Instead of going to his home he took a room in a hotel, and locking the door, turned on the gas and laid down upon the bed. He lay there for several hours, when he was aroused from a semi-conscious condition, into which he had sunk, by one of the hotel clerks. The gas pipes were slightly stopped up, and this fact prevented the attempt at sulcide being successful.

Samuel arose and made straight for the Cumberland river, into which, without a moment's warning, he cast himself. A couple of boatmen, who saw the act, hurried out just in time to prevent him from sinking the third time. He was taken out and carried, in a shivering and half frozen condition, to police headquarters, and later was taken home. His family and friends are taken home as attempt to suppress the affair.

MARRIAGE WILL OUT.

Hrs. Fannie May Stanley and Mr. Nowlin Wedded Quietly on Yalentine Day.

THEY TRIED TO KEEP IT SECRET,

But It Leaked Out and Disappointed Suitors Are After the Happy Groom. The Bride Known in Georgia.

A romantic wedding which will interes the whole state came to light yesterday throught the bride sending for a Constitution reporter and giving it away.

Mrs. Fannie May Stanley, who used to be Miss Fannie May Sykes, of Augusta, is as pretty a petite brunette as there is in all Georgia. Sone grew up in Augusta and was the same as the daughter of ex-Mayor Robert May, of that city. She was the mayor's niege and was a belle of that culmayor's niece and was a bene of that cur-tured city. When quite young she married Captain Stanley, who was proprietor of the Commercial notel at Athens. He died about two years ago and left her a com-fortable fortune. Since then she has been living most of the time in Mount Airy, North Caroline. North Carolina.

Six weeks ago she met Mr. J. W. Nowlin, general superintendent of the agents of the Fidelity Insurance Company, of Philadelphia. It was a case of love at first or second sight. The wooing progressed rapidly, and although the lady was engaged to wed another. Mr. Nowlin interested her deeply enough to induce her to promise to become his bride.

Mrs. Stanley had many suitors besides the accepted two. To escape them required strategem. So she came here about two weeks ago and stopped at the Kimball house. They were exceedingly circumspect and were seldom seen together. One day, another suitor who was not satisfied with the situation called at the hotel and there was something of a scene. He was dismissed, but the guests of the house whose eyes are always open and ears, too, overheard a part of what passed. The lady had the sympathy of the guests.

Mr. Nowlin continued paying his attentions to other ladies in the city where he was well acquainted. Last week a rival approached Mr. Nowlin and warned him that he would be jilted, and tried to bluff him off. Mr. Nowlin, who knew where he stood, remarked that he could take care of himself. Mrs. Stanley had many suitors besides him off. Mr. Nowlin, who knew where he stood, remarked that he could take care of himself. Brooding over his fate, the rejected lover made threats of what he would do if Nowlin persisted or thought of marrying the charming widow.

Ten days ago, Mrs. Stanley sent to Cartersville for her ceam of fine horses, and twice she and her sweetheart went driving. This disturbed the discarded gentleman very much and he talked rashly.

So the wedding was hurried up, and on the atternoon of it. Valentine's day, the bride-fo-be sent for a friend and requested him to get a preacher, and then she introduced her future husband to the friend who was surprised at the announcement. He disappeared and soon returned with Dr. Strickler, of the First Presbyterian church. Mr. Frank Miller, chief clerk at the Kimball, and two or three more were all who ball, and two or three more were all who were present. The party assemble! In the parlors of the Kamball, closed the doors, drew the portices cicsely, and the ceredrew the portices cicsely, and the ceremony was performed.

The witnesses promised secrecy and no one else suspected it. That evening at tea and ever since, the couple have entered the dining room separately and occupied seats on different sides of the room. There were circumstances, nowever, which caused the suspicion that they were married.

Gradually, the story leaked out around the hotel. Yesterday at dinner the bride wished to let the groom know that his best man had called.

"I was inclined to wait until I went out and then ston for a moment at his table.

"I was inclined to wait until I went out and then stop for a moment at his table and whisper to him, but I was afraid the guests might think something peculiar of it and so wrote a message to him on a bill of fare. When the waiter took it over to him, some of the guests thought that I was trying to get up a flirtation. We could overhear the talk, and my maid told us that the secret seemed to be getting out. We had decided to keep it quiet for two or three months, but under the circumstances, resolved last right that it would be best to announce it. It will be a great surprise to our friends. Even my mother does not know it, and there will be some friends who will be hurt. We are going off in a few days. Where? Oh, we prefer to keep who will be hurt. We are going off in a few days. Where? Oh, we prefer to keep that secret.

"I want to save my husband's head. One of my old friends has declared that he will do something rash."

Mr. Nowlin is a handsome young man. He came down to the parlor wearing a red boutanniere and looking prosperous and happy. He stated that he was not worried by any threats that had been made but does not wish to be annoyed and may leave today. He was formerly of Nashville, but his headquarters now are in Philadelphia where his home will be. He has been married before, too.
